Research Roadmap: A Guide Towards Completing Ph. D Journey Successfully IWRR - 2020

Writing a doctoral thesis—the culmination of years of research work—can be a daunting endeavor. But learning from those who have already tackled this task can help you make the process a little smoother.

Join a live webinar, hosted by IAARHIES, the Society of Academic Research (Regd) that helps young research scholars understand the correct approach towards a successful doctoral thesis. Learn which skills are the important in the journey of research. Academicians, Scholars and renowned industrialist who have completed their PhD, reflect on their experiences and what did—and didn't—work for them.

The webinar will also provide opportunities for publishing research papers in indexed and recognized scholarly research journals. The International, peer-reviewed conference IWRR - 2020 will provide an interdisciplinary platform for academics, researchers, policy makers, activists, students and professionals and authors are welcome to submit from a range of topics, perspectives, and disciplines. The range of research submissions may include conceptual, empirical, experimental, and case studies.

Grab the chance to present your research at an exquisite platform among renowned Researchers
